

Accommodation: Homestay

Many of our students choose to stay in homestay accommodation. We have welcoming, friendly and helpful hosts who enjoy sharing their homes with international students.

If you are thinking about living in homestay, it is important to book early and tell us about your preferences, especially if you have any concerns about diet, smoking, children or pets. Please contact us if you have any medical condition/disability that we should be aware of in order to accommodate you in a homestay that meets your needs.

We have many different kinds of hosts working with us including families with children, older couples and single people from a variety of different backgrounds.

All of our hosts live approximately 20 - 40 minutes away from the school on public transport. A weekly bus or train pass will cost no more than £20.*

What to expect:

- Your host will be welcoming, friendly and happy to talk to you
- You will have your own room, unless you tell us that you would like to share a room with a friend
- Your room will be safe, clean, comfortable and in a good state of repair
- You will always have access to a bathroom and washing facilities
- You will be provided with healthy, balanced meals
- You will not be placed with another student who speaks your language, unless you tell us that that you would like to stay with a friend from your country
- There will be no more than four students in your homestay
- If you are unhappy with your homestay for any reason you will be moved as soon as possible
- An emergency line is manned 24 hours a day by LSE staff
